Dear Praying Friends,

There is no question that God has been generous to us this year in many different ways: We have been able to eat and pay all our bills (expected and unexpected), Kendra and Steve got married (AND ARE SPENDING CHRISTMAS WITH US!!), Cody went on a mission trip to Tanzania, and it looks like all the money necessary for the FIRST PART of the HBOT treatments for Ellie has been provided.

If I were ungrateful, selfish, and heartless enough to even make a Christmas wish list to give to God (and NOT include things like peace on earth and goodwill toward men) it might look something like the following:

1. An asylum miracle and family protection/reunion for Dr. "S" and his wife and children in Pakistan...

It really will take a miracle as nothing from the human side gives any kind of hope whatsoever.

Dr. "S" and I continue to meet to study the Bible. He reminds me in many ways of my Albanian brother Gregor as I really sense the Lord's hand on his life, and the Holy Spirit at work in him.

2. Salvation for Mr. "A"...

I have NEVER met with anyone for so many years to study the Bible so consistently who appears to so sincerely WANT to believe, and yet still cannot bring himself to trust in Jesus. Our dear friend from Sudan is in his upper 60's now and needs a Savior more desperately than ever.

3. A car for me and Ellie to use while doing the HBOT treatments in the States for the first half of 2010...

A generous friend in Mobile has offered one of his cars for every other week, but that leaves us the off weeks still in need of a vehicle. If we can find either one, or several different cars, to use in the off weeks, or if there is a vehicle for the full time there, or if some way we can rent a car for the off-weeks, or any other way the Lord wants to provide, we are trusting Him. He took us this far, we trust He will take us the rest of the way.

Ellie and I leave on January 8th for Mobile. We start the therapy in New Orleans on January 18th. Please pray for all of us as we will be separated from Vicki and the boys who will stay in Greece.

We were truly blessed in 2009 in so many ways it is impossible to list them all now. Most of you were in some way a part of us being so blessed this past year. THANK YOU! We thank YOU and we thank God for using you! May He return those blessings back to you a hundred-fold!

Very very grateful,

Scott (and Vicki)
